

SpandyAndy is a local Vancouver performer inspiring people by spreading his message of acceptance, positivity and creativity through dance.

After graduating from Red Deer College and moving to Vancouver to start his own IT company, Andy Rimer found his passion for performing. He has always loved making people laugh. Winning contests in school and performing at YukYuk's in Calgary were some of his accomplishments.

While living in Vancouver he was introduced to dance and was showcased on So You Think You Can Dance Canada for his comedic dance performance. Next SpandyAndy traveled to Toronto and won $10,000 and the title of Canada's Freshest Dancer. Now with a substantial fan base in Vancouver SpandyAndy continues to spread his message and would love to be seen internationally.

Currently SpandyAndy is getting ready for his Season 3 audition for So You Think You Can Dance Canada and working with other local artists on collaborative projects.
